03 Investment opportunities

- Foreign entry into banking. The Banking Business Proclamation lets foreign banks enter through a subsidiary or branch or by buying shares in domestic banks. NBE draft directives cap aggregate foreign ownership of a domestic bank at 49 percent and a strategic investor at 40 percent.
- New bank licenses. Under the NBE draft licensing directive, a new domestic bank or foreign bank subsidiary needs minimum paid-up capital of Birr 5 billion, and a foreign bank branch needs Birr 5 billion in branch capital remitted in foreign currency.
- Capital market services. ECMA has licensed 21 capital market service providers, and the ESX has listed seven companies since January 2025, including six banks and Ethio Telecom.
- Underpenetrated insurance. Insurance penetration is 0.3 percent, yet gross written premium grew 43.1 percent to ETB 41.1 billion in FY2024/25.
- Digital payments and fintech. Mobile money reached 135.9 million accounts and digital payments nearly doubled to more than ETB 18.5 trillion, with 21 licensed non-bank payment entities. The proclamation also creates a regulatory sandbox for innovative financial services.

04 Incentives

- The Banking Business Proclamation provides a regulatory sandbox for new and innovative financial services and brings representatives of foreign banks under NBE regulation.
- Deposit and lending rates are freely set by each bank under Interest Rates Directive No. NBE/INT/13/2026, effective January 9, 2026, with no floors or caps.
- Capital repatriation and remittance of dividends and interest are guaranteed to foreign investors; EIC lists financial services as an emerging sector.

05 Risks to consider

- Concentration: the state-owned Commercial Bank of Ethiopia holds 49.1 percent of banking assets, and trade accounts for 41.5 percent of loans.
- Financial sector stakeholders rank exchange rate movements and inflation as the most significant short-term risks; operational risk is rising with financial fraud and crime.
- The IMF says foreign bank entry 'will take time', and flags particularly fast private credit growth at the Commercial Bank of Ethiopia, whose asset quality review was due by June 2026.
- The foreign equity and licensing directives we reviewed are NBE drafts with blank numbers and effective dates, so the final rules may differ.
